Dear Parents,

We are hoping everyone is enjoying the spring break. We continue to keep you all in our daily prayers and ask for God's peace and protection over your family. There are a few updates we would like to share.

General Announcements

- As you may have heard, the Florida governor and superintendent of the county schools have canceled classes through May 1. This means that DSA will continue with online instruction through at least May 1.
- We have reviewed the parent, student, and staff surveys. We will be communicating some updates from those in Friday's email message.
- Please know that our Divine Savior Academy and Churchstaff staff are here to support you in a variety of ways. The church staff has the following opportunities for spiritual encouragement:

Early Childhood/Elementary Announcements

Our story time and scavenger hunt, as well as the pancake party and picnic lunch, were a huge success. There are a few other opportunities to keep your young ones connected this week. Please remember that these are not traditional classes and lessons...so they are completely optional! We will be adding some posts to the "General" channel in your Microsoft Teams account. Feel free to check there each day to see what activities your child can engage in the rest of this week.

We are also posting several resources with ideas for activities that your child might enjoy at home as well! These will range from virtual field trips, creative art ideas, STEM projects, etc. Below are a few highlights of some special events coming up this week:

Thursday (April 2)

- You are invited to another episode of our DSA Kids' Cooking Show. This time, we are making cookies! If you would like to cook along with us, you will need the following ingredients: flour, baking soda, salt, butter, sugar, brown sugar, vanilla, 2 eggs, and chocolate chips. If you would like to watch this episode, look for the video to be posted in your Microsoft Teams account.
- You will also find a DSA STEM Challenge in your Microsoft Teams account tomorrow. Be sure to watch the video example of a "chain reaction" and get your engineer and construction minds ready to create your own at home. Send us a video of you completing the challenge!

Friday (April 3)

- Join us for another DSA Kids' Cooking Show episode when we make a favorite play material... play dough! If you would like to make this play dough along with us, you will need flour, salt, water, oil, cream of tartar, and food coloring. Watch for this video to be posted by Friday on your Microsoft Teams account.
- We will end the week with one of our favorite events in ECE...Enchanted Evening! Get ready to hear and watch some wonderful stories come to life! Watch for more details on this event later this week.

Please remember that our next email will be sent this Friday, April 3. May God continue to be your source of strength in the coming weeks. Please continue to reach out with any questions during the break. We close this message with the following prayer:

Great Physician of body and soul, many people have been struggling with sickness and pain. If it is your will, let these days pass quickly. Guide the hands of those who care for the sick and give everyone confidence in their skills. Please grant comfort to all people, especially those suffering, and give us trust that you allow nothing to happen that is not for our eternal good. In Your name we pray. Amen.

Blessings,

The DSA Administration
